Introduction from Judith Hedgley, Chair of CIEH

Dear prospective candidate,

I am delighted that you are interested in finding out more about the vacant governance roles that we have at CIEH. We are the professional body for environmental health, established by Royal Charter “to promote, for the public benefit, the theory and science of environment health”.

The working environment in which our members (and the wider profession) operate has been changing at speed. Environmental health practitioners ensure that all the physical environments in which we work, eat, live and play are safe. They work in local authorities and government departments, retailers and hotel chains, regulators and enforcement agencies, the NHS and armed services, academia and the third sector, charities and global corporates.

Like many professional bodies CIEH is going through a period of transformation. The pandemic brought both challenges and opportunities for us, alongside a need to review again the way in which we operate and the best way in which we can protect the public and support the profession.

To help this work, we are now looking to make appointments to our three committees; Finance, Appointments and Remuneration and Risk and Audit Committee. Later in 2024, we expect to be looking for people to join our Board, Membership, Learning and the Profession Advisory Group and Welfare Fund Committee. Details of each role and the work of each group, are outlined in this pack. In this recruitment round, each role is open to non-members of CIEH and some to members of CIEH too.

Our Charter places an important obligation on us to act in the public interest; we are determined to do that in an open and transparent way. Alongside that, we want to ensure that those with governance roles reflect the diversity of the modern profession and the communities it serves.

Volunteers play a hugely important role in our organisation. If you would like to join the team leading and transforming CIEH, and the support that it gives to the profession, we would welcome an application from you. You can find out more about the requirements for each role in this pack.

Thank you for your interest and, if one of these roles is right for you, we look forward to receiving your application.

Judith Hedgley

About CIEH

CIEH is the professional body for environmental health representing over 7,000 members in the public, private and third sectors. Building on its rich heritage, CIEH ensures the highest standards of professional competence in its members, in the belief that through environmental health people's health can be improved.

Our vision is "safer, cleaner and healthier environments for the benefit of us all". This guides all that we do across our broadly-based work in promoting standards and good practice, professional development, member services and our approach to learning and qualifications. We seek to influence public policy to help the profession achieve its aims.

Information about our mission, vision and strategy can be found at:

www.cieh.org/about-us/what-we-do/mission-vision-and-corporate-strategy/

Candidates without an environmental health background can read more about the profession at:

What is it like to take on a role in CIEH's governance?

Robert Easton

Rob joined what is now the Membership, Learning and the Profession Advisory Group in 2022. He's Head of Consulting at Shield Safety, leading a team of Environmental Health Practitioners supporting businesses predominantly in the leisure, retail and hospitality sector to improve their safety performance and culture. He says "I am still very much new to the role and just starting to understand the focus of the Group. It is already clear that the members of our advisory group are passionate about environmental health and supporting the next generation pursuing a career in the field. As a Chartered Environmental Practitioner who has worked in the public sector, but mostly in the private sector in the UK and abroad, I am learning so much about the strategic objectives of CIEH and enjoying making new contacts through the group".

Maria Jennings

Maria joined the Appointments and Remuneration Committee in January 2023 having recently retired from the Food Standards Agency where she was the Director of Regulatory Compliance, People and Northern Ireland. As a Chartered Fellow of CIEH, Maria wanted to continue to make a contribution to the professional body that had supported her throughout her 35 year career in local and central government. She is passionate about building strong teams and feels that her role on the Committee allows her to help CIEH find the right people for key governance roles to strengthen CIEH for the future.

Saravana Namasivayam

Saravana joined the Risk and Audit Committee in March 2020 and was, subsequently, appointed to the Board of Trustees in January 2023. Saravana has held previous roles in Government and has worked in financial services for the past 17 years. His experience has largely been in finance, risk and audit and transformation/change. He has also run a care home as Chief Operations Officer and Director and does extensive voluntary work with charities supporting the elderly and mentoring small entrepreneurial business owners. Saravana was attracted to the CIEH as it was an opportunity to share his skills and knowledge for the benefit of the profession, as well as to learn more about environmental health and bring this into his day job.
